

Aerospace Structural System Lab:

To teach students about measuring shear force and bending moment of the real aircraft components including the fatigue life calculation.